

Questions 31–40

Complete the notes below.

Write ONE WORD ONLY for each answer.

The Evolution and Cultivation of Vegetables

Background

- In many countries, the 31 _____ plays a role in regulating the production and distribution of vegetables.
- One of the biggest challenges for vegetable farmers is controlling the growth of unwanted plants known as 32 _____.
- The 33 _____ of a plant, including its stem and leaves, is essential for providing support and transporting nutrients.

Environmental Factors in Vegetable Growth

- Vegetables with high moisture content require a sufficient supply of 34 _____ to grow properly.
- A modern agricultural 35 _____ has made it easier to harvest vegetables efficiently on large farms.
- Some vegetables are typically planted in early 36 _____, as the weather conditions are ideal for their growth.

Other Scientific Aspects

- The 37 _____ of vegetable cultivation dates back thousands of years to ancient civilizations.
- Exposure to adequate 38 _____ is essential for photosynthesis, allowing vegetables to develop properly.
- Carrots and potatoes are examples of vegetables that grow underground and develop from a 39 _____ system.
- The 40 _____ of certain vegetables, such as peppers and tomatoes, can vary depending on their ripeness and variety.

- 31. government
- 32. weeds
- 33. structure
- 34. water
- 35. machine
- 36. spring
- 37. history
- 38. sunlight
- 39. root
- 40. taste